A. W. BLANCHARD. M. F. HAWES

FRIDAY, DEC. 5, 1890.

We have made arrangements for a weekly
lymphatic letter from a first-class correspondent who will give to our readers
short, pithy and witty epitomes of Washington and Congressional life.

Of course all the bare facts of this life
can be gathered from the "daily" papers
and the Congressional Record, but we think that the writings of our correspondent "in the field," will be at once entertaining and intriguing. First letter next week.

Political.

The political interests outside of a most naturally been concentrated at Washington in the President's message (which we print in today's supplement), the annual report of the Secretary of the Treasury,
and the opening of the short session of the Fifty-first Congress.

The President's message is quite a lecture on the condition of the country, covering such a diversity of interests. Its marked features are the calling of a debt
to the lavish expenditures for public buildings which marked the last session of the fiftieth congress and the first session of the fifty-first. This was well begun by the protection of the coast, several schemes,
which got through the house, congress,
to build up cities and towns at the expense of the general government.

Once more the president puts in a plea
for that much needed Bankruptcy Law to protect New England manufacturers from the local grab laws of many of the southern states.

Trade reciprocity and the development
of American commerce are also marked features of the message, and no doubt will occupy a good share of the time of the short session.

The report of the Secretary of the treasury is a very interesting exhibit of figures,
and it would be well to read to get an idea of the magnitude of the country in which we live, its vast interests and resources, and its more than fair facilities for spending money.

Congress, being already organized,
proceeded at once to the discussion of important bills and interests, and no doubt will make rapid progress in appropriations and other enactments. If it shall prove in giving to the country any definite idea of the situation and condition of the "poor Indian" it will not have met in vain.

Does Protection Protect?

The means used for the purpose of protecting human life protect it, or is there any means to be used by which we may avert such holocausts as that at the burning of the Leland Home in Syracuse a short time since or any of the many casualties
which are daily occurring?

As concerns the many multitudes who are constantly mired in factories, hotels,
and other buildings, in steamboats and
cars, there are but few killed or maimed,
yet the aggregate numbers thousand-
every year.

Legislatures are constantly legislating,
and manufacturers and individuals are constantly devising ways and means whereby
these calamities may be averted or reduced to a minimum.

We chronicled lately, that by order of the State Board of Inspectors of Public Buildings, two of our largest factories
were putting out fire escape.

We look to the ask and of these in case of fire or alarm? Our factories are all fitted with means of escape in case of fire,
but one operative in a hundred knows
the way to them.

Then I regard to our schools, year after year we have been massing our scholars in large buildings, thereby giving them larger facilities and more advantages, but there has been nothing done as a safeguard from accident, save to have a few doors swing
out instead of in, a few in a few instances
closed to the buildings.

There have been many schoolroom
instructions by which scholars can get out without quickly without such a panic as recently occurred whereby hundreds of children were piled on top of each other in a narrow hallway, several killed and many more seriously injured.

As concerns a part of the school
exercises to have a few doors swing
out instead of in, a few in a few instances
closed to the buildings.

The first meeting of the season of the Shakespeare Club was held in the library
room of the Fogel building, South Weymouth, Monday evening. Of the limited membership of fifty, between thirty and forty were present. "A Midsummer Night's Dream" was read. Louis A. Cook, Esq.,
of Boston, made the hit of the evening.
The other members in the same house are seen to have a few doors swing
out instead of in, a few in a few instances
closed to the buildings.

The musical and dramatic festival in the Weymouth Opera House on the nights
of Dec. 2d, 3d, and 4th was a notable success,
and the usual program followed.

Some people preservers around their heads and shoulders on their legs, their feet, but how do they do it? What good do they do? We are at some what the accident and the save the treatment is the same have in view. In our factories the operatives might be drilled once or twice a week
in the use of the fire escape, and by this means become familiar with it and get out in the shortest possible time, and that without difficulty.

We recollect on a sound steamer a few years ago, when a collision occurred,
and, of course, the usual panic followed.

By C. E. BROWN—OUT WEST WENWORTH.
Upon the wooded slope I sit,
With soft leaves, shadowed by stately pines,
When the sun sets, and the shadows lengthen,
And gazing on my waters still,
I let my heavy thoughts drift.
The soft Indian creeps along,
With footstep that could scarcely wake
The wild host from his sleep.

LAST WEEK Tuesday, the mother of Bradford Gay was buried, and Friday the remains of his daughter Edith arrived from Massachusetts, where she had been staying with relatives. She had been away about six weeks from her home at the completeness of the work of putting the heating apparatus in use, and would not part with it for any sum less than $100.00.

This heating system is entirely safe and has always recommended it after showing the

radiators and registers, and the temperature in the house is equal to that in the room where I live.

I will open the door for them to see the fire; they invariably say, "That isn't the fire that is heating the house." I have never had any trouble with the full benefit of the coal burned by this combination heater.

To a person who has never used a water heater, it is natural to think that the heat must come from the water.

But, it is not so; the heat comes from the air.

It is the heat of the air that is heated by the

The GAZETTE being now the only paper in a town of 10,000 inhabitants, it is most expedient to have its circulation is upwards of 100 copies weekly.

Managers and Editors:

A. W. BACHELDER, M. E. HAWKINS.

FRIDAY, DEC. 12, 1890.

The GAZETTE was represented by a correspondent at the dedication of the New York World's magnificent new home, the Pulitzer building, on Wednesday evening last. We shall print a letter from him next week.

Senator Quay says "There is no distinguishing the fact that the recent elections are a victory to the Republican party of the inherent honesty of a material medication of tariff rates."

Brings a more or less modification of Quay
would do the party as much good.

Weymouth has its Press Club, and Brockton has its Press Club, why not a Norfolk County Press Club or a South Shore Press Club? Of occasional meetings, with benefit both to themselves and the public,
We are in favor of some such movement.

Some months ago the Citizen published an editorial advocating a High School Battalion, and we heartily benefit to the town, bearing in mind what that would intensely interest them. We are pleased that an announcement is made in this week's paper of the first steps being taken by the North high school boys in this direction. We hope they will be successful.

Poor Ireland!—Just as Home Rule was almost an assured fact, there comes a sad
break among her leading advocates.

The break is of such a nature that it appears impossible to heal.

Gladstone's upright morality and vigorous honesty can not brook Ireland's comparatively bad example.

The Irish members of Parliament are divided in their allegiance, and although a majority of them repudiate Parnell as leader, he still has a large following who are willing to condone his offence.

Terrificly unfortunate is this rupture for Ireland's interests let us hope that her cause will find ardant support as ever
in the Liberal party of England and be poured to the speediest success it deserves.

Dr. Koch's discovery, if it brings about the results claimed for it means virtually
the extirpation of that dread disease, consumption. All that can be gathered in regard to its experiments points to such a result.

Dr. Koch's discovery has already secure in Germany as a discoverer
of disease germs, for which he received great rewards from the crown, and
as also the author of the present system
of service of Berlin, of which he said—
"Berlin is now free from the danger of an epidemic."

Dr. Koch's discovery will not be kept a secret but will be given to the world as soon as its perfection is assured. It, upon further trial, it does not fail, Dr. Koch will be the greatest benefactor of the human race since Christ.

Bismarck is quoted as saying: "For me the world would have been better off if we had not been killed, or their parents, brothers, sisters,
and widows have put on mourning for us." Where are the other 80,000 perhaps every year?

Still Bombs.
With every week's issue we have increased the number of GAZETTE, till last week we printed 50 quires, or 120 copies.

This week we print a round 2,000.
In connection with this large circulation
it is interesting to speculate as to where all the votes cast in the voting
contest there have been six issues of the GAZETTE or above 9,000 votes.
The number cast is 2,000. Where are the other 7,000?

Of course a considerable number of the papers go out of town to people who will not be interested in voting, and perhaps there are many more people who will not take the trouble to vote
than there are who do. But the world loses good men. May we survive him emulate his virtues.

The Co-operative Course.

The third entrainment in the Cooperative course was given in Fog's Opera House-South Weymouth, Tuesday evening;
John Clark, manager; Company: Mrs.
Monte Clark, manager; Mr. Smith, director;

Mr. W. Want, tenor; Edward K. Hall, bass; Mrs. Hall, pianist; Mr. Davidson, pianist. The audience, owing to the fine weather and the attraction offered,
was large. The other entrainment was held in the Fog building the week before.

The other entrainment in the course will be on next Tuesday evening, Dec. 16, at the Fog building. The remaining entrainments will be on the 23rd, 30th, and 31st.

The meeting was evidently against division.

Faused Away.

Rufus K. Tracy, aged 77 years,
was born in Bath, Maine, when he was 17 years of age and came to Dorchester,

where he learned the trade of a cobbler and tanner. When 25 years old he came to Weymouth for most of his life worked
at his trade, repairing and making his own farm ever since. His health has been failing,
his bones brittle, and he has been a burden
to his family. His son, Rev. Mr. Tracy, of Pilgrim church, and Rev. Mr. Leland of Dorchester, performing the ceremony.

The Wednesday Night Club.
The regular meeting of the Wednesday Night Club was well attended. Misses George C. Torrey and Atherton N. Hunt were elected to honorary membership and Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Pratt were chosen as permanent members of the club.

Mr. Hunt, formerly a member of the Boston Yacht Club, is a man of large means and is well known in the State organizing schools and strengthening them greatly existing. The holding of a conference meeting, the above is to be one feature of this work.

The Bright Side of Libby Prison.
Everyone who delighted with Chaplain McCabe's lecture on the India
course last Friday night, and nearly everyone agreed with the lecturer that the bright side was the outside. The lecture was well received by the audience,
and his selection from the opera,
"Faust," was doubly enjoyed.

Mr. Hunt, tenor; Edward K. Hall, bass;
Mrs. Hall, pianist; Mr. Davidson, pianist.

Fay's Portrait.
South Shore Commandery, Knights Templer, in the evening, Dec. 10, was held with Eliza V. Raymond, an open express wagon, turned from Middle street into Broad, by some means the seat on which
Mr. Raymond sat slipped from its place,
striking a bright hydrant which was broken
and the two occupant of the wagon
dropped to the ground. All pronounces it a perfect accident. It is a pity that the veterans and the old men of what was paid to serve the Republic.

It seems well nigh incredible, but it is a fact that the single soldier, during the war, was paid more than the "Printers Art" was paid at the time of its delivery has netted
the chaplain nearly $40,000.

Surprise Party.
About seventy-five friends of Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Starr surprised them at their residence on Torrey avenue Wednesday evening. The surprise was well planned,
right here at home, an almost endless variety
of useful and ornamental articles for
every age and condition, and to suit the
taste of each as well as the pleasure plethora
of one with whom to share it.

The temptation to buy all the beautiful things to be offered will be great,
the selection difficult, but let us all
endeavor to supply our wants in our own
town and not to import local interests to a vain desire to choose from a little larger market.

Christmas.
From now until the day of the great religious festival the thoughts of all will be busy with the momentous question:
What shall we buy for Christmas?

Our local dealers are undertaking to solve this question by providing a much more extensive line of goods than ever before and the anxious purchaser may look
right here at home, an almost endless variety
of useful and ornamental articles for
every age and condition, and to suit the
taste of each as well as the pleasure plethora
of one with whom to share it.

The most marked feature to the consumer is the endless variety of games, of which so many kinds are there, that one evening devoted to each will exhaust the season, and long before one can become proficient in any it will be time to don the tunics and wade up the crooked mallet
for exercises in the outdoor winter sports.

Trinkets in chin-wands and butterfly spring
quite the thing while ten cent watches, snakes and jumping dogs seem to have been relegated to the past. Of books and books there seems to be an almost infinite variety of good and the "Printers Art" was netted at the time of its delivery.

The temptation to buy all the beautiful things to be offered will be great,
the selection difficult, but let us all
endeavor to supply our wants in our own

Skating.
Wednesday afternoon at H. H. Clark's home, in an open express wagon, turned from Middle street into Broad, by some means the seat on which Mr. Raymond sat slipped from its place, striking a bright hydrant which was broken
and the two occupant of the wagon
dropped to the ground. All pronounces it a perfect

Reunion.
The first reunion of the class of '90
Wednesday evening, Dec. 10, will be held at the residence of Frank Tucker on Hawthorn street.

Sudden Deaths.
The GAZETTE is on exhibition at the Weymouth Public Library, the basis of the late census, making the number of adults 2,000 members. This is quite a number, and I hope that body,
which is good for old Massachusetts,
other New England state gets a gain.

This is the largest number of the states east of the Mississippi.

It now remains for the state to be redicted to the west, which may be some gerrymandering it is hard to say whether we will be in Morse's district or not.

Postponed.
The next meeting of the Weymouth Club
will be in the month of January.

The following testimonial of one of the leading business men of Weymouth, which will be of interest to all who are interested in the sale of Combination Hot Water Heaters.

I have had twelve years experience in
the sale of Combination Hot Water Heaters
and to my entire satisfaction. I have many clients all over the country, and have never been disappointed in the work of putting the heat into their houses.

These have been to a great many states
and have always received the same favorable opinion.

I believe that this is the best heating apparatus in use, and would not recommend any other for the same reason.

It is a combination of all kinds of heat
and has been being used for many years.

It is a combination of hot air, steam, water
and fire.

HUNT & CO., 64 Front Street, Weymouth.

THE KING OF FRIEZE

DRIVERS, CONDUCTORS, RAILROAD-MEN, MILK-MEN AND ALL who do business in our doors, and who wish a warm and strong ULSTER.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

In February, 1859, the STANDARD CLOTHING sent a Dark Oxide Mill Frieze Ulster, which was a King of Frieze, with the request to give it the handsomest possible treatment.

Although there was no show of any amount, it was a very wet season, so I would say daily my business, as well as all others, was at the most desirable, strongest, warmest shirt that I ever made.

The King of Frieze, $12, brings it within the reach of every hardy driver, car driver, or any one whose business is out of doors, and who needs a warm coat, water or snow.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

Next week being Christmas week, and as the holiday comes on Thursday, the day before our usual day of publication, we have decided to issue the GAZETTE on WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON. This will benefit our advertisers by giving them an extra issue the day before Christmas, and will enable us to give our help the entire holiday to themselves.

Correspondents and others should note this change and get copy in on Monday and Tuesday, leaving as little as possible for Wednesday.

The president does not yet vote the bill, and the bill will get a $5,000 public building. Brockton wants one next. "Man wants but little here below, no wants that little long," has become an anomaly as far as raids on the treasury are concerned. It would read better. "Man wants his full share here below and just a little more."

The Observer has very little appreciation of the kind of men who are sent to our relatives' judgment from their local offices in saying that the seven items referred to in our recent article on the location of the Union church were far from being extensive or important business houses and not much of consequence. We are led to wonder as to the advantage of an advertisement in the Observer, however, in effecting its purpose by telling the public that the same firms are not of much account anyway.

We don't care to continue the controversy but we wish to defend these business men from this unjust assertion.

The men we named were among our active and important business men and would be spared.

The Indian and Justice.

The Indians in this country, more act in the great national tragedy of the white man and the Indian, and one of the leading actors of this generation has passed from the stage to the "happy hunting grounds" of his tribe.

It was no statement of Sitting Bull's that "God made me with two legs," he legged with a rifle and a bomb-proof shield.

Concerning the most tragic and intelligent Indian the country has ever known, he has given his life in defence of what he believed to be his rights.

The Indians may be divided in the "ghost dance" and their coming Messiah; but if every man needed a Messiah it is to think that seven men need one. I point with some "no man's land" anywhere, with treaty after treaty made and never ratified, it is no wonder that the Indian resorts to violence and bloodshed as a means of redressing his wrongs.

Our country's treatment of this unfortunate race has been bad. We buy their furs, clothing and blankets, then turn them to supply them with "true water," for which are bartered away the very things given them. In addition we supply them liberally with the most approved pattern of repeating rifles and other arms, so that when they have the right to be long, they may have the most effective means of inflicting death and suffering upon thousands of innocent settlers and of shooting down the troopers sent to restore peace.

With the present Indian troubles to stir it to action, Congress should see that our policy for the future is wiser and more humane.

Meeting of Weymouth Temperance Alliance.

The above society met at the Old North Church Sunday evening last. Rev. F. H. Painter, the president, read the scripture and the offering. Following this, Mr. Inkley, the presiding officer, introduced as the first speaker Edgar R. Downs of South Weymouth.

This gentleman spoke of the duty of every citizen casting his vote, and also dwelt upon the benefit of scientific improvement in our schools.

Mrs. M. C. T. U. planned the homes and the C. S. T. U. planned the houses for the winter.

Charles Hawes of Lowell's Corner, told several war stories illustrative of the bad effects of indulgence in liquor.

Mr. South of Weymouth, made a few remarks expressive of his interest in the work.

Henry Pratt responded for the Reform Club of Weymouth, and advocated personal work.

Supt. Norcross was then called for but was not found to be present.

Dr. Maynard of Weymouth, spoke of the effects of alcohol and stated that 90 per cent. of the inmates of asylums are there because of drink.

The choir rendered several selections in a most charming manner and the committee extended to the members its thanks.

The next meeting of the Alliance will be held in the Pilgrim Church, North Weymouth.

A Good Investment.

Whitman's pond is a very attractive place for skating. Such scenes as the one at Mt. Hope, where Mr. and Mrs. George E. Rogers have built a large ice rink, can hardly be equalled.

There is a plan on foot in connection with the People's Institute to inaugurate soon after January 1, a series of evening classes in vocal music, elocution, commercial arithmetic, bookkeeping, penmanship, and mechanical drawing.

Evening Classes.

This is what you come for, in fact, you must have it, to fully enjoy life. Thousands are seeking for it daily, and nothing because they find it in the people who are most successful. It is a spiritual annual in the hope that they may attain this goal. And yet it must be had by those who are most successful.

The class will be taught by Mr. E. G. Custer, East Weymouth, and the young girls will be most interested in the course which he still wears as a momento of his experience in "Marked Weymouth."

The assault was witnessed by several, and the name of the cowardly assailant is known. The officers of the law will investigate the affair.

The conduct of the young ladies was not confined to this episode, but later in the evening young ladies were insulted, their escorts assaulted, and young girls terrified by being chased by these unmanly and unmerciful fellows.

Booming.

The new factory of the John P. Lovell Arms Co. at Worcester will be forty-nine feet front, four hundred feet long and four stories high. It will be fitted up with seven hundred employees, and it is said this enterprising firm has on hand orders sufficient to run the factory for two years.

Art Exhibition.

It is generally supposed that art exhibits are confined to cities and that if by any peculiarity or waywardness an artist should happen to have an abiding place in the country, the studio and exhibition must still necessarily be in the city "among the madding crowd."

Miss Shepard of East Braintree, daughter of Capt. Josie P. Shepard, has been quietly studying for some four years past, and although her many friends have seen a few of her paintings and have all recognized her talent, that talent was only fully revealed on Monday and Wednesday of this week, when she held a exhibition and sale at her home, on Quincy Avenue.

Fifty or more paintings hung on the walls or rested upon easels. As showing the artist's genius more particularly than others, which were all excellent however, we will mention the following: a portrait of a young girl, a picture of a landscape, a study of roses and one of chrysanthemums.

Among the water colors those that attracted most attention were a study of Cherokee Roses, and a sketch "Across the Fields."

We extend our congratulations to Miss Shepard upon the great success of her first exhibition and sale.

Supper Meeting of the Wednesday Night Club.

In spite of the storm three hundred and of the ladies of Weymouth gathered in the U. T. U. Room South Weymouth, on Wednesday evening, John G. Hutchins presided and called upon the members to discuss various "Topics of the Times."

Koch and the bascules, Sitting Ball, the Australian Ballet, Stanley and his guard, postal telegraphy, racing questions, science, hypnosis and hydropathics, electioneering.

An original poem "Problems of Life" was read by L. B. Joy. A Christmas box was furnished by the president, containing a present for each one and a prize in every package. The hilarity within was equalled only by the fury of the gale without.

Samuel S. Spear becomes the next president.

K. P. Notes.

Last Tuesday evening about seventy members of Delphi Lodge No. 15, K. P. of America, gathered in the room of the Hotel New Bedford for the third annual meeting of the Lodge.

The meeting was opened with a service in the name of Rev. Z. L. Bicknell, Past Master.

There was no service at the annual meeting of the Knights of Pythias, held on Saturday evening.

The pictures are good and the whole work will be an ornament to the hall of Progress Engine No. 2, New Bedford, where it will be taken on Saturday.

Good Skating and Good Prospect for the Ice Men.

To one who is a skater, the sport is the greatest of sports. The ease and the continued cold of the past two weeks have compelled to cover Great Pond, with six or eight inches of smooth, transparent ice, excellent for this exhilarating and healthful exercise, and which makes glad the heart of the ice men. The school children are praying for no snow, a skater for a smooth surface, which will be given him by the weather.

Service appropriate to Christmas will be held in the Universal church next Sunday, Dec. 25 at 10.30 a. m., there will be service in Trinity church, with music and sermonization of the Epiphany. The subject of Rev. William Hyde's sermon will be, "The Incarnation."

Waiting for Christ's Coming" will be the subject of Rev. William Hyde at Trinity church, next Sunday morning, and the evening he will preach on "The Judgment of Life." The services are at 10.30 a. m. and 7.30 p. m.

There was no service at Trinity church on Saturday evening, account of the failure of the electric lights, caused by the breaking of the main wire.

A young man of exemplary habits, open and frank in all his dealings, commands the respect of all who meet him. He is at present attached to the clerical force in the factory of Edwin Clapp, and his energy and devotion to business, has won his way to a good position. Mr. Slattery, who is the boy candidate for the school board, in these days when young men are at the front in their efforts, has a chance and also Mr. Hutchinson, as young men are good, and probably most of the young men will rally around one of these two candidates.

CHARLES E. BICKNELL.

Charles E. Bicknell, the popular candidate for the watch of the veterans of the war and of the fire department, was born in Weymouth in 1844, and is consequently forty-six years of age.

Weymouth has always been his home.

With the late "Dick" Tobin and a host of others, he responded to the first call of his country for troops, and enlisted under the call for three-months men. He, however, was never called into service by this enlistment.

He re-enlisted under the second call for three-year's men, in Co. H, 1st Regt., broadsword and bayonet, at Lynnfield, subsequently became a sergeant in the 1st Mountain Artillery, and was promoted to corporal in the 1st Battalion, and became a sergeant in the 1st Artillery.

The following Monday she complained of weariness, and from that time failed rapidly and passed away on Thursday. The immediate cause of her death was heart failure.

Mrs. Bodman, although not a resident of Weymouth, in her brief visits thereto, had to bear her stony worth and beauty of character, endeared herself to a large circle of friends and was esteemed by all who met her. The remains were brought to Williamsburg, Mass.

Business Notices.

The People's Improvement Society is frequently turned from Broad to Madison street, the sharp turn in the road, the whizzes of the buggy and Weymouth became a combination that was too much for the young men to manage.

Class '90 Recited.

The first annual reunion of the class of 1890 High School, was held at the Hotel New Bedford, on Saturday evening, F. Tander presided, and the 100 students attending.

The exercises of the evening began with an address of welcome by M. F. Murphy, which was followed by musical selections by Misses Ada White, Gertrude W. Cain, and Clara J. Moran. The election of officers resulted as follows: President, F. Tander; Vice-president, Mrs. C. A. Lewis; Secretary and Treasurer, Levi N. Clark. At the close of the business, the class hymn was sung.

Letters were received from Miss Clara Torrey of West Virginia and ex-superintendent of schools Gilman C. Fisher of Muskegon, Mich. A fine collation was served.

School Improvement Association.

The pupils of the North High School had last Monday night a social gathering in the room of the People's Improvement Association.

Mrs. M. C. T. U. planned the homes and the C. S. T. U. planned the houses for the winter.

Relics.

Every village seems to be ornamented with some old useless buildings as exserves to the public gaze. Such as Weymouth, whose only knowledge of art is that business is gained by selling them.

The windows in our several stores have been very attractive for the past week, and have arrested the attention of the passers-by at no place have they stopped to look longer and more earnestly than at the window of F. B. Reed, East Weymouth where the spring fair is to be held.

Firemen's Ball.

The first annual concert and ball of the South Weymouth Firemen's Band will be held Saturday evening, Dec. 25, at 8 o'clock.

About $1,000 was available for loans, but only $620 was paid at premiums of 5 and 10 cents. Next month about the same amount will be offered to bidders.

The experience of similar institutions is that there is a lessened demand and lower rates for money during the winter months. On the other hand, it will be found a good time for those contemplating building in the spring to obtain money.

Christmas Festival.

The annual Christmas gathering of the Second Congregational society will be held Wednesday afternoon and evening Dec. 24.

At 3 o'clock the children will meet and at 4 p. m. the adults, and both supper and dinner will be served.

A Tour Around "The World."

NEW YORK, Dec. 13, 1890.

Mr. EDITOR:
Owing to your courtesy I had the pleasure of representing the GAZETTE at the reception given, on the evening of Dec. 10, by the New York World upon the opening of the Pulitzer Building, the new home of "The World."

Park Row is the newspaper centre of New York, and has seen several changes in buildings in late years. The Tribune, Sun and Times building, are all of comparatively recent date, but for them the World is still building and was the chief object of interest.

Fourteen months ago the cornerstone of the building was laid, and since that time, swarms of busy workmen have been pushing the work to completion, until now the structure stands finished, the largest, highest and probably the best equipped news paper building in the world.

As I crossed the City Hall park, on the night of the reception, I looked in wonder and awe at the scene before me. It was above the surrounding buildings, making them appear dwarfed, and it was illuminated from cellar to dome. The building has twenty-six separate floors and is three hundred and forty-five feet high. The sight of this great pile blazing with light and decorated with flags was well calculated to inspire the most matter-of-fact person and lead him to reflect on the daring and ingenuity of his fellow-men.

The guests, on arriving, were directed to the reception room. There that place were assembled over the building, in groups, by members of the reception committee. From the coat room we crossed to the cashier's department on the same floor, and then down to the publication office. We next passed down to the press room, which is surrounded by the boiler, engine, pump and dynamo rooms. Here, twenty feet under ground, are turned out the thousands of papers daily. As we passed through, two of the great presses were in operation, converting an enormous roll of paper into newspapers all folded for use. The air in this room was so dry and the heat so intense that we could stay there but a short time, although the sight of the heavy presses so easily controlled was very interesting.

From this point our route took an upward turn, passing in succession through the stereotype, waste paper, and wetting rooms, the newsboy's department, the delivery, mail, delivery, and lastly the room to the central hall main.

Pausing a moment for a breath of fresh air, we took an elevator and passed to the eleventh floor where the first of the editorial rooms is located. The intervening floors are occupied by offices. Still going up, we passed through the editorial and reporterial rooms, the night editor's room and telegraph gallery into the composing room. Here, hundreds of men, with bare arms, and moist faces, were setting up type on the presses to go to press, day and night. I saw several hands in the process of setting that I read in the next morning's edition.

Up, up, always up, we went to the news department, engraving rooms, the private rooms of Mr. Pulitzer, the restaurant, the weekly department and other business rooms, until we reached the file-room in the top of the dome. Putting on what extra wraps we had with us, we passed out and stood in the observatory, facing upon our faces a bright sun at nearly the degree below the freezing point.

One hundred and fifty feet below us lay the City Hall park and Broadway. The thirteen stories of the Tribune and Times buildings and the immense mass of the post-office were far beneath us.

Even the towers of the Brooklyn Bridge, standing in their noble majesty, were topped over by the mighty building on which we stood. I am very anxious to get a view from this observatory on a clear day; for the sight of the great city and its harbor spread before one in the light of day must indeed be magnified. We were in the city, the lights of the city twinkling like stars in the dark, and the stars in the light of the city.

I have not been much interested in the city election for it seems to me there has been no great importance given to it, and the reason is, I suppose, for whose success the women of Boston worked strenuously. When I say this to a man he immediately begins to point out the various economies practiced under the late regime, but I can only see one phase of the last administration. It failed to clean out dirt, streets which the platform only served to make the dark places.

"Motors come and mayors go, but dirt is in us ever." Small shopkeepers on the streets still sweep the dirt from their stores into the gutters. Still handbills are thrown about, bananas and oranges given away to the salaried and conscientious citizens, why doesn't some of the good people of Weymouth appeal to the commissioners?

For your dark platform and station are a disgrace to your finely-lighted town.

Margery.

Woman's Vote.

Mrs. Frances J. Bracken, of Weymouth, concerning woman's vote, with her reply to His Excellency, J. O. D. Bracken, Governor.

DEAR SIR:—I have the honor to reply to your letter of June 21st, asking my opinion upon the following question to wit, "Has the right to vote for members of a school committee or school board as a woman a property tax only, the same right to vote for members of a school committee or school board as a woman a property tax only, or both a property tax and a poll tax?"

Well, then, "I am satisfied with the change which have been made. The paper is progressive, and that is the kind of age we live in."

E. G. Bates.—It is just what we want, the whole town can but like it.

John E. Stoddard—I read every word of it.

M. Sheehey—Truly a people's paper and all must it.

N. D. Canterbury—A long step in the right direction, but I fear it will not be a permanent fixture and the paper will hardly receive continuous treatment in those days. But the world do move' and women are a power in municipal politics, especially in Boston where they have a very large influence.

They have said since "Time" began that women are credulous creatures. I do not believe it; but I must confess that I have not been content to follow the example of others, he has made an example himself which has done credit to him, to the city, and to the state.

Supplement to Weymouth Gazette.

Boston Letter.

Boston, Dec. 11.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE GAZETTE:

The person who, in this world, of trials and tribulations, where the generality of mankind get more kicks than peace, can make us forget dull care and drive away the worst case of the blues that ever sprang out of Pandora's box, must really be called a true optimist.

Such an one is Francis Wilson, who has been crowding the Globe Theater for the past month and making everybody laugh with his "Merry Monarchs." His Highness is witty, without being saucy, honest, without being coarse, and has a wit of his own. He is a whole new vocabulary of catch words evolved from his inner consciousness; and each one fits the "like the paper," wall, and each is more laughable than the preceding.

He does a great many funny things on the stage, his every movement is graceful, yet so provocative of laughter, that, one knowing his calm and unassuming appearance in private life, wonders if he keeps a stock of humor and jollity bottled up for us, and lets out on the stage with the greatest freedom.

He is a real artist, and a good one, too, in a study of his art, having been born in a studio, and has a studio of his own.

The person who, in this world, of trials and tribulations, where the generality of mankind get more kicks than peace, can make us forget dull care and drive away the worst case of the blues that ever sprang out of Pandora's box, must really be called a true optimist.

I am sure that, in this world, of trials and tribulations, where the generality of mankind get more kicks than peace, can make us forget dull care and drive away the worst case of the blues that ever sprang out of Pandora's box, must really be called a true optimist.

The GAZETTE wishes its readers A

Merry Christmas and a Happy New

Year.

Beautiful Holiday weather greets us

this season.

Tomorrow the busy shopping will have commenced, the last mysterious package will have been smuggled home or have found its way to the dear friend for whom it was intended, and from Baby McKee in the White House to the child of the most humble voter who helped to place him there, all will have entered into the full enjoyment of the Christmas festival.

Our advice to support home trade in holiday goods has, to all appearances, had an effect, judging from the reports of dealers. That is right. When this spirit is thoroughly inculcated in the people, then and not till then, will the town begin to boom in earnest. First-class stores in every department of trade will result.

"The poor ye have always with you," said He whose birth Christmas day is intended to commemorate. It is, then, especially fitting that the poor should be remembered at this season. It is indeed blessed to give and fortunate are those who are able to do so.

These great merciful days, with the beautiful and wondrous universal culture of giving, are the means of strengthening the ties of home-society and the church. Sad, indeed, will be the life or home where there comes not an added ray of sunlight and joy at Christmas and New Year's. One gift we can give to all, and that is the wish for a stronger and larger manhood and a purer and better life during the new year.

With this number we close the old year, and as we stop for a moment on the threshold of the new year, we wish to thank our many friends for their kind and encouraging words, and liberal patronage during the past few months.

As we think of the year that is before us, we realize that there is much to be done. It is said that New Year's resolutions are soon broken, but the resolve we make to start bright and early, through life, is to give the people who shall be here all the time.

We shall spare no pains to cover the local field, and with our Washington, New York, and Boston correspondents think we can make each issue more desirable than the last.

In the Morse-Tobey controversy, Mr. Morse seems to be ahead just now, his plain statements in the Herald on Monday disproving Mr. Tobey's charges.

The house of representatives certainly cannot be accused of having had time to debate previous to passing the important bill. Nor was there any necessity for extended debate; the bill is in all probability as fair as any bill that could have been framed.

The injudicious use of Dr. Koch's remedy has killed quite a number of people, and the doctor has written a sharp letter critical of physicians in this and other countries for their haste in using his discovery without being fully aware of its nature. Americans do everything in a hurry, and cannot wait for developments. If there is a good thing to be had they must have it at once.

The following, taken from the editorial columns of a neighboring journal, and a journal that has always been known as an out-and-out Republican paper of the most stalwart kind, strikes us as so true an illustration of the present tendency of the two parties as to be worthy of a reproduction in our columns.

While we are not particular as to the Republican party in Massachusetts, still there is one thing which appeals to us very forcibly and we must express it. There seems to be almost a stamp of attitude in the actions of the two parties, to agree the young blood in the party, to pass them by entirely and bestow the prizes of office upon the old and infirm. We don't care through the ranks of Republicans today and when there is more than local regularity in this, it gives the party a bad name.

For the House, W. E. Abbott, Est. of 35, whose wife ably wielded the gavel last year and the year before, will have no competitors among the Republicans as Speaker, and after a competitive vote from the Democrats for Josiah Quincy, will no doubt have the unanimous election which he so justly deserves, and it will not be his fault if the legislature is kept in session till May.

J. G. B. Adams, the genial and popular Sergeant-at-arms of the past, will no doubt be continued, as he deserves to be, not only for his efficiency in that position but for his gallantry at Gettysburg, where he nearly gave his life for the tattered flag which hangs in the rotunda of the Statehouse.

What At At.

The best paper is the one that criticizes the actions of the two parties, and the best political comment upon it. A paper by a sort of instinct represents the common sense and the right lead of the community.

The above is what the Providence Press Club thinks constitutes the best paper.

What It Contains.

Our Supplement this week contains: Our Washing Letter, by Willard.

The account of the reception of the Ladies' Schubert Quartette at Chagrin Falls.

The resignation of Rev. Mr. Labaree, for a quarter of a century a member of the Norfolk Conference.

The poem, by L. B. Joy, read at the Wednesday Night Club.

Extracts from the speech of Congressman Morse on the Apportionment bill.

Circular Letter to the Grand Army by Commander Venzy.

Two columns and more of Christmas stories and other miscellaneous matter.

Don't fail to read it.

Entertainment.

Meeting every evening in the Assembly hall, under the auspices of the Relief Club, the committee being Mrs. Nelson Gardner and Mrs. Henry R. Raymond. The following programme was given: Organ duet, Ad. and Salle White; vocal duet, Wm. C. and Anna; piano solo, James Morris; vocal duet, Sarah Quinn, Carrie Hunt; harmonica solo, Arthur Welch; organ and organ, Frank D. Andrew; Ad. White; song, Edith Burdett; reading, Jennie Burnell; banjo solo, Ad. White; dialogue, "Pretty Piece of Property"; by seven characters, and the farce "The Whistper"; by three characters. The hall was filled, and the entertainment was a grand success.

That this particular journal shows the courage to break loose from strict party discipline in an even-handed action with the party management that should bear weight in the party cabinets; and only a short time since another influential Republican paper, the Plymouth Memorial, editorially warned the party in nearly the same strain.

It is undoubtedly the fact that the tendency of the young men is today toward the Democratic party; and if the Republicans are wise, they will search for the cause of this tendency and take measures to counteract it.

The generation of young men, now coming up can not be induced to enthusiasm by the reason that a party did a quarter of a century ago. Their eyes are turned to the future and appear to be more interested in what is to come than in what has past.

The men they wish to support for office are the young, active and wide-wake men of to-day, and not men who were active twenty-five years ago, and have been living largely upon their record since.

The New Movement.

The real sensation of the year 1890 has been the advent of the Farmers' Alliance. The first time they gathered around the ballot-box was the fourth day of last November, and they polled between two and three millions of votes, elected governors in three states, sent party men to Congress and scared many others by narrowing their ambitions to almost nothing. Their movement should receive a remarkable interest, not short a moment, in the present state of things, and a desire for something better.

The farmers of the country have hitherto been left out in the cold in all the great industrial changes which have benefitted the laborers engaged in other industries.

The best feature of the new movement is that its leaders advocate the education of the masses of the farmer as a farmer and as honorable as that of any other sphere of life, and that the ambition "to rise," "to get on," to climb up to a so-called higher sphere is all wrong.

They also declare for co-operation and this principle of socialism is one of their strongest cards. It is asserting that it is better for men to fight for each other than against one another. They advocate co-operation in production and also in distribution, which means that all railroads shall be owned and operated by the government. They also want the government to take the telegraph system, and they insist that all speculations in food materials must cease.

Their demands upon the government may be in some particulars crude and impracticable, especially as regards finance, but that the Farmer's Alliance is a growing and influential organization is admitted by both Republicans and Democrats.

Properly led and directed this new party may do something, but the great danger is that so many wild ideas will creep into its platform that it will fail to retain even the support which it now has.

Presentation.

The beautiful service from Z. L. Bucknell How Co. No. 2, East Weymouth to Progress Steamer Co. No. 2, New Bedford, a description of which was taken to New Bedford Monday evening, will be shown at the Great Eastern, Falesy, Lientz, J. W. Parker, William T. Bishop, and Edward Burnell, accompanied by Capt. A. Flint of Eureka II & L. Co. No. 2, and George W. Bailey. They were received by the members of Progress Co. and the formal presentation was made by Capt. Falesy, who was the first to speak. The audience, who were won distinction in the Crime, is a gentleman of large literary and scientific acquirements. He is a veteran traveler of wide experience and observation and an enthusiast in all matters pertaining to photography. His lectures will bear comparison with the popular Stoedter lectures.

Last Friday evening the glee club of the Sunday school concert under the direction of F. C. Cushing-Superior, "The Musical Star" will be given with selections from "Ben Hur."

A female quartet will render several selections and Eddie Ryerson will favor the audience with a solo and instrumental music piece.

The audience were appreciative of the vivid portrayals of character contained in the card and all took solemn warning from the selfish character of old Seroge.

The audience were appreciative of the musical features in the party at "Old Fessy's" and the singing of "Cricket's Christmas Carol" was especially enjoyed.

The Glee club was well received and their selections were especially adapted to showing off the voice of their tenor who possessed a really good voice. The Ave Maria was very pleasing and Mr. Herrick the tenor sang "Noel" by Adams with the tenor solo, Miss Luisa Tirrell; sermon by Rev. Henry Rossey, "New Life in Manifested Love"; anthem "Like Silver Lewis" by Mrs. Lovell; organ postlude, Raymond H. Moore; organ postlude, Raymond H. Moore.

The Y. P. S. C. E. will hold their usual six o'clock service.

Prof. Brown and the Clef Quartette.

Last Friday evening the third entertainment of the Institute course was given with their present and pleasure of limestone, the "Hallelujah" Christmas Carol and the singing of "Moses True-Born."

The audience were appreciative of the vivid portrayals of character contained in the card and all took solemn warning from the selfish character of old Seroge.

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 24, 1890.

The GAZETTE wishes its readers A

Merry Christmas and a Happy New

Year.

Beautiful Holiday weather greets us

this season.

Tomorrow the busy shopping will have closed, the last mysterious package will have been sent by land or sea

or have found its way to the dear friend

from John McKeon in the White House

to the child of the most humble voter

who helped to place him there, all will have entered into the full enjoyment

of the Christmas festival.

Our advice to support home trade in printed goods has, in all appearances,

had no effect, judging from the reports of dealers. That is right. When this spirit is thoroughly inculcated in our people, then and not till then will the town begin to boom in earnest.

First-class stores in every department of trade will result.

"The poor ye have always with you."

said he who birthed Christmas day is intended to commemorate. It is, then,

especially fitting that the poor should be remembered at this season. It is indeed blessed to give and fortunate

are those who are able to do so.

These great memorial days, with the beautiful and well-nigh universal

custom of gift-giving, are the means of

strengthening the ties of home society and the church. Sad, indeed, will be the life of home into which there comes

not an added ray of sunlight and joy

at Christmas and New Year's. One

gift we can give to all, and that is the wish for a stronger and larger manhood

and a purer and better life during the new year.

With this number we close the old

year, and as we stop for a moment on

the threshold of the new year, we wish to thank our many friends for their

kind and encouraging words and liberal patronage during the past few months.

As we think of the year that is before us, we realize that there is much to be done. It is said that New Year's resolutions are soon broken, but the reason we make shall try and carry

through, which is, to give the people a paper that shall be alive all the time.

We shall spare no pains to cover the local field, and with our Washington,

New York, and Boston correspondents

think we can make each issue more desirable than the last.

In the Morse-Tobey controversy, Mr.

Morse seems to be about just now, his plain statements in the Herald on Monday disproving Mr. Tobey's charges.

The house of representatives certainly cannot be accused of having wasted time in debate previous to passing the appropriation bill. Nor was there any necessity for extended debate; the bill is in all probability as fair as any bill that could have been framed.

The injudicious use of Dr. Koch's remedy has killed quite a number of people, and the doctor has written a sharp letter criticizing physicians in this and other countries for their hasty

in using his discovery without being fully aware of its nature. Americans

do everything in a hurry, and cannot wait for developments. If there is a good thing to be had they must have

it at once.

The following, taken from the editorial columns of a neighboring journal,

and a journal that has always been known as an out-and-out Republican

paper of the most stalwart kind, strikes

us as so true an illustration of the present tendency of the two parties as to be worthy of a reproduction in our column.

While we are not posing as mentor to the Republican party in Massachusetts, still there is one thing which appeals to us very forcibly and almost a studied attitude on the part of the Republicans to ignore the part of the Democratic party.

Look through the ranks of Republicans and there is not less redaction

than there is in the Democratic party.

The Morse-Tobey controversy, the distribution of federal offices in Massachusetts, the various surveys and investigations made by the Comptroller of Customs, the appointment of pension agent Osborne. The apportionment

of seats in the Legislature, the retention of Senator

McKinley, the election of Hayes, and the other political events of the year.

Many young men each year make their political cast, as it were; they are looking for a place to stand on.

Where will I get recognition? they say;

and, judging from the aspect of the thing

they are in, the fact that the party which

most appreciates their presence and cooperation

is the party which is in power.

The following, taken from the Providence

Press Club, constitutes the best

example of what we mean.

What it Contains:

Our Supplement this week contains:

Foul Weather Letter by Willard.

The account of the reception of the Ladies' Schubert Quartette at Chagrin Falls.

The resignation of Rev. Mr. Labaree,

for a quarter of a century a member of the Norfolk Congregational Church.

The poem by J. B. Joy, read at the Norfolk Night Club.

Extracts from the speech of Congressman Morse on the Apportionment bill.

Circular Letter to the Grand Army by Commander Veary.

Six columns and more of Christmas stories and other miscellanies matter.

Don't fail to read it.

Entertainment.

Monday evening a very pleasing entertainment was given in Temperance Hall,

under the auspices of the Reform Club, the

comics of the ladies being the chief attraction.

The following programme was proposed:

Henry C. Nichols, tenor.

John Morris, bass.
